TRASH COLLECTION SUSPENDED TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS –The Department of Public Works (DPW) has suspended solid waste services for today, Wednesday, December 26 due to the inclement weather.

City routes are currently one day behind due to the Christmas Holiday. With trash suspended today routes will essentially be one and a half day behind. DPW will resume private and city collection for Tuesday Trash routes on Thursday. Once drivers finish Tuesday routes they can start on Wednesday trash routes. Friday crews will finish up Wednesday routes and start on Thursday routes. Saturday crews will finish Thursday routes and move on to Friday routes.

There may be a chance some haulers will not be able to complete trash collection on Saturday. If this happens, they will finish on the following Monday, December 31 and move on to scheduled Monday routes.

The City will make every effort to service every street as soon as trucks can safely navigate the streets.
